The coverage of interventions such as the distribution of insecticide-treated nets and indoor residual spraying has greatly increased, and will need to be sustained in order to prevent the resurgence of disease and deaths caused by malaria. Long-standing challenges Millennium development goals, where we are? About us News Centre Funding Partners. Advances have been made: The Millennium Development Goals MDGs are eight targets. Unsurprisingly while a significant number of developing countries are on target to achieve the MDGs, sub-Saharan Africa lags in most goals, and only poverty and gender educational parity goals seem to be well within reach. The complete report is available online. When they do, it is often a difficult experience, due to stigma and discrimination against the MDGs to the development agenda:
